PACE Pathways is a cohort learning community designed for working adults interested in completing an Associate in Arts Degree (with or without transfer). PACE Pathways students complete a fixed sequence of courses their first two semesters and share some courses in their remaining three semesters. PACE Pathways classes are scheduled three evenings per week, with some class work online. Students may begin PACE Pathways fall or spring semester. Most PACE Pathways classes have transferable units and allow students to select into a range of possible AA (Associate in Arts) and ADT (Associate Degrees for Transfer) degrees. Students enrolled full time will complete an AA degree and/or credits for transfer in two years and PACE Pathways is designed to support transfer to the California State Universities, University of California campuses and private colleges.
