Description

Berkeley City College’s American Sign Language Program (ASL) must continue to recruit and retain individuals who wish to learn the language. American Sign Language majors, alumni and faculty must play a more active role in marketing and recruitment processes. Student support services also must be strengthened and integrated as a seamless whole with instruction.

Rationale

Faculty, staff and students in Berkeley City College’s American Sign Language Department will engage in activities, which meet the marketing plan objectives listed above. In doing so, the department aims to build a foundation for future program marketing and recruitment efforts. Meeting these objectives will help the program increase enrollment and broaden public awareness and value of Berkeley City College’s American Sign Language major.

Target Audience

The American Sign Language Program’s target audience includes prospective and returning ASL students; employees in government agencies, nonprofit organizations, schools, health care facilities, libraries, attorneys’ offices and various businesses who must learn ASL on their jobs, or who wish to transfer to a four-year university and enter a linguistics major; or who wish to fulfill university language requirements. The major also is targeted to those who wish to continue to interpreter training so that they can work as interpreters in the Deaf community.
