

Bridging the Gap Medical Interpreter Course

The Bridging the Gap Medical Interpreter Course prepares individuals to become successful medical interpreters. This language-neutral course, taught in English, is open to speakers of all languages. Prior experience in the medical and/or interpreting fields is helpful but not required!

Students will learn the necessary skills to become a qualified medical interpreter by participating in group activities, gaining practice interpreting from day-one onward, and through the instruction and insight of our experienced trainers.

Participants of our 40-hour training will learn: Interpreter roles

National codes of ethics

Interpreting skills practice

Culture and its impact on interpreting

Introduction to medical terminology
