Description

Berkeley City College will convey an image to the public at large as a place where student learning is the primary goal; intellectual curiosity and inquiry are encouraged; diverse views are respected; and where skills for lifelong learning are solidified. In internal and external communications, it shall convey an image an institution which provides innovative approaches to education, and which responds to diverse student needs and learning styles, and contributes to the community's economic development needs.

Berkeley City College Marketing Objectives: College-at-Large

Rationale	Faculty, staff, administration and students who attend Berkeley City College will engage in activities which meet the marketing plan objectives listed above. In doing so, the college will integrate processes in instruction, student services and marketing to build a strong foundation for continued growth. Meeting these objectives will allow Berkeley City College to increase enrollment and broaden public awareness of the college, its programs and services.
Target Audience	The college-at-large's target audience consists of a broad range of individuals who have a variety of educational goals and objectives. As an integral part of the Peralta Community College District, Berkeley City College will convey an image to the public-at-large as a learning institution which believes in and supports students' potential as individuals and their capacity for growth and development.
