About Learning ARTS

Learning ARTS is a company dedicated to the care of children with autism and operates under two principles: help those with autism and provide a career path for those who also want to help.

Learning ARTS is a company dedicated to the care of children with autism. Formed in 1997 by Dr. Will and Lara Brandon, Learning ARTS has operated under two principles: help those with autism, and provide a career path for those who also want to help. Our approach to intervention is a family and community based one formed on the principles of Applied Behavior Analysis. We believe that everyone has potential, and that Learning ARTS can assist in meeting that potential. We are dedicated to evidence-based interventions, such as Applied Behavior Analysis (ABA), and continually strives to be a leader in the development of the field. Learning ARTS actively participates in the academic, community, and political development of our field. We pride ourselves on keeping up to date with any issues and research that could impact a family's intervention. Learning ARTS is a preferred provider with over 20 different funding/insurance agencies, including Medi-Cal and Medicaid; and provide services through most of Northern/Central California and Nevada. Please see our map for locations. Our staff include caregivers and interventionist, as well as care coordinators that can help families access services sooner and ensure access to services remain available. Please feel free to browse our website for more information. Thank you for your time and interest in our company.
